BUILDING “EDISONLITE” BY MANUELLE GAUTRAND ARCHITECTURE

© FEBRUARY 22, 2016  MARCO RINALDI

TI WEBENCH Designer Tools
Deliver Complete Power, Lighting & Sensing Applications in

Image © Manuelle Gautrand Architecture
Reinventing Paris is an architectural competition and just had its winners announced.

The scheme spans 23 sites owned by the city or by social housing agencies. Scattered across Paris 67-69, Edison Avenue, 75013 PARIS.

Winning project of the call for innovative projects “Reinventing Paris” to the site of Edison, Paris 13th.
“EDISONLITE” by Manuelle Gautrand Architecture is a WINNER of “Reinventing Paris” competition for the Edison Site, Paris 13.
Is an construction of a building of 26 homes in homeownership "custom" that is to say, co-designed with future buyers, loads zero and sold at fixed prices.

30% of the living space will be shared living spaces, such as a roof garden, a basement workshop, a shared kitchen, etc ... Label Effinergie +. Source MANUAL by by Manuelle Gautrand Architecture.
For to see these buildings complete, we may have to wait years, but can now be seen all proposals and the winning designs in a multimedia exhibition at the Pavillon de l'Arsenal. http://www.pavillon-arsenal.com/ until May 8 2016.

Location: Paris, France
Architects: Manuelle Gautrand Architecture
Engineering: all bodies of state: S2T engineering
Save: VPEAS
Collaborators: GrDF, ENGIE, Lafarge Holcim, Socfin, RRP, In-Process, Ubiart et Urbagri
Client: Loftissime and New Urban Functions (NBU)
Area: 2,000 m2 (SDP)
Images: Atelier Senzu, Courtesy of Manuelle Gautrand Architecture
Image © Manuelle Gautrand Architecture

Article by Marco Rinaldi
with permalink: